PRICE TWO CENTS

MANY VISITED THE FIRST ART EXHIBIT

Interesting Feature Was an Address by T. C. Steele, One of Indiana's Most Prominent Artists.

HELD AT SHIELDS HIGH SCHOOL

Public Extended Cordial Invitation to Study Pictures Any Evening or Afternoon Until June 9.

The first exhibit to be given by the Seymour Art League opened Tuesday night at the Shields high school building and was attended by a large number of persons interested in the subject. Merited praise was accorded the exhibit and everyone was highly pleased. The pictures, embracing the work of many noted Indiana artists as well as local artists, may be studied any afternoon or evening until June 9. The committee expects that many visitors will be present this week.

A number of beautiful musical selections were furnished during the evening by Don A. Bollinger, pianist, and W. G. Masters, violinist.

An unusually interesting and important feature of the exhibit Tuesday night was the lecture by T. C. Steele, of Indianapolis. He has several paintings at the exhibit and is regarded as one of the foremost Hoosier artists. He was introduced by Mrs. J. H. Carter, president of the League.

Mr. Steele complimented the League upon its exhibition and said that the movement was not new nor unique and was part of a nation-wide movement. He declared that millions of dollars had been given various associations throughout the country in order that they might be in a better position to further and encourage the study of art.

The design of the picture is one of the important features, declared Mr. Steele. A true artist will endeavor to make prominent some idea and frequently in order to do this many details are overlooked. He illustrated his point by the picture of a forest. An artist, he said, would give his attention and effort towards bringing out the beauties of the forest in general rather than that of a particular tree. In other pictures it is necessary to give attention to the details rather than to the general design.

Mr. Steele mentioned the thought that can be expressed on the canvass in the blending of the colors and in the harmony of arrangement. An artist, he asserted, expressed himself on the canvass the same as a writer does with words. A true artist may see the beautiful in a scene when it is overlooked by the uninitiated. He sees the various colors and tints and knows how to reproduce them in order to express the thought he wishes to leave with those who view the painting.

Another artist of wide reputation who is visiting the exhibit is Edward Morris. He was surprised at the character of the exhibit and said that the committee deserved high praise for the success of the exhibition. He visited the exhibit today.

Although the foreign pictures have been studied with great interest much enthusiasm was manifested by those who visited the local department. Over half hundred contributions may be seen in this department and many of them are of high character. Next year the league expects to offer prizes for the best contributions by local artists and believe that twice as many pictures will be entered in the department.

Because of the specially prepared lighting arrangement the colors are brought out under the glow of the electric lights. Large reflectors have been placed on the lamps and the scene was one of brilliant splendor.

YOUTH ARRESTED HERE TO BE TRIED IN SCOTT COUNTY

Sylvia Fitch Alleged to Have Stolen Horse from Liverman at Scottsburg.

Sylvia Fitch, the seventeen-year-old Scottsburg boy who was arrested here Monday afternoon on a charge of stealing a horse, will be arraigned in the Scott circuit court the first week in June, according to information received here by the police. If the youth does not plead guilty and the case comes to trial as now predicted the local police will likely be subpoenaed to appear in court as witnesses for the state.

The horse was returned to its owner, a liveryman at Scottsburg. The saddle and bridle are said to belong to a farmer near Crothersville and he is expected here to identify the property. He told the police over the telephone that he had missed the saddle for about three weeks and gave a good description of the one found.

The Scottsburg liveryman recently purchased the horse and had him in a pasture. The boy claims he was walking along the pasture and the horse came up to him. The youth told the police that he rode the horse to Crothersville and placed him in a livery barn over night, returning to Scottsburg by traction. On the following day he went to Crothersville and drove the horse here.

The boy tried to sell the horse at the Empire Livery Barn for $60 but finally consented to take $20. C. D. Hopewell, the proprietor, told the boy he would purchase the horse provided he could give a good title. The boy said his name was Tom Parish and lived at Fairfield, Ky. He telephoned to some town in Kentucky but was unable to satisfy Mr. Hopewell who notified the police.

Later in the afternoon the boy said he was acquainted with a woman at Scottsburg and she would identify him. He called her over long distance telephone and after Chief of Police McCord had asked her a few questions he found that the lady was the boy's mother. She said she had sent him here to collect a small account.

SAY CROSSINGS ARE OFTEN BLOCKADED

Complaint Filed by Residents in South Part of City Against Pennsylvania Company.

TRAINMASTER GETS NOTICE

Bids for Improvement of Ten Blocks will be Received by Council Thursday Night.

Complaints that the street crossings in the south part of the city were frequently blockaded for an unreasonable length of time by the Pennsylvania freight trains were heard by the board of safety at the regular meeting Tuesday night. It was stated that travel on several of the streets in the city was interrupted while the trains were switching or when the cars were left on the main track while the engine took water at the tank near the passenger depot.

The city ordinance provides that such crossings shall not be blockaded except for a certain length of time and the city clerk was instructed to notify the Pennsylvania trainmaster of the alleged violations. The trainmaster was requested to take the matter up with the employees of the company and to inform them of the ordinance. Several complaints have also been made about crossings in the north part of the city being blockaded by cars for fifteen and twenty minutes at a time.

Supplementing a recent resolution relative to leasing the automobile grounds and factory to the Nutter Gear Wood Company, a new factory that is contemplated for this city, the board considered the question of having the site appraised. John H. Kamman, an attorney for the company, stated that such a procedure would be necessary before a perfect title could be given in case the ground is sold. He requested that the council adopt a resolution at the next council meeting to have the ground appraised. The company is expecting to buy the site, it is understood, and hesitates to place the machinery in position until the city's title to the ground is proven.

The board agreed that because of the commencement exercises at the Majestic Thursday night the regular council meeting should be called at 7 o'clock so that the business could be finished and the members could attend the exercises. The preliminary business will be disposed of first and at 7:30 o'clock the bids for the new street improvements will be opened. It is not probable that any contracts will be awarded at that meeting as the bids will likely be referred to the board of works for further consideration.

Bids for about ten blocks of streets will be received and it is understood that quite a number of contractors are figuring on the work. Besides the local firms two or three Indianapolis contractors will file bids. This will be one of the largest street improvement contracts to be awarded in southern Indiana this year. As the streets have been divided into several contracts various firms may be given the work.

Large Number of Cases Heard in Circuit Court Since Opening of the May Term.

SUTTON CASE CALLED TO TRIAL

Woman Charged with Contributing to Delinquency of Daughter Denies Allegations—Court News.

Since the May term of the Jackson circuit court convened there has been a steady grind of cases. Court has been in session practically every day and besides the large number of jury cases many causes have been heard by Judge Swails. There have been an unusually large number of criminal cases this term and already two defendants have been sentenced to the Indiana reformatory.

The case of the state against Mrs. Catherine Sutton was called to trial this afternoon. She is charged with contributing to the delinquency of a girl. The girl is her daughter, aged fourteen years, who was recently sent to the Girls' Industrial School at Clermont. She was returned here in charge of a field agent to testify for the state. Whether or not the girl will give testimony damaging to her mother was awaited with much interest and quite a number of spectators assembled at the court room to hear the evidence.

Mrs. Sutton denied her guilt and pleaded not guilty. She is represented by the county attorney, H. H. Prince. About fifteen witnesses were subpoenaed to testify for either the defendant or the state. The story told by the girl is very unusual and the straight, forward manner in which she made her statements led the police to believe that the girl was forced to follow the life which she admitted.

The case of Frank Bush against Jesse Weaver to determine the title of certain real estate was heard this morning and the court will give the attorneys an opportunity to argue the case later.

Oliver E. Patterson, who is held at the county jail on a charge of embezzlement, will be brought into court Thursday. It is said that he will plead guilty and ask the leniency of the court. He was formerly agent of the Adams Express Company at Seymour and is alleged to have spent $185 of the company's money.

The jury acquitted James J. Miller of the charge of trespassing.

The case of the State vs. Frank Williams, charged with assault and battery with intent, will be heard May 29th before Special Judge John Brannan.

The suit for divorce of Robert E. Wheeler and Ora Wheeler has been dismissed.

Wesley Fish was granted a divorce from Lucy J. Fish, as was Maudie E. Eaglen from James Eaglen, and her maiden name of Maudie E. Davis restored.

Lula Sons was granted the custody of her child, Maggie, and given a divorce from Daniel Sons.

The divorce proceedings of Mary K. Adams vs. Chas. H. Adams has been dismissed.

The claim of Samuel Carr, Supt. of Construction for the Wm. P. Rider drain, of $209.50 was presented and allowed.

Judge Swails heard the evidence in the John Oathout drain case, which occupied six days of the court's time, and will render a verdict before the end of this term of court.

A change of venue was granted in the case of Calvin Dobbins vs. P. C. C. & St. L. R. R., on application of the defendant, as has the case of Frank M. Bush vs. the same company. The latter has been venued to Scott county.

Adolph Strauss vs. Fannie K. Reynolds, a suit on note, case has been dismissed.

A continuance was granted the defendant in the case of Frank Lory vs. Zimri Bennett to foreclose mortgage. This case is one venued from Lawrence county.

The Elwood Trust Company received a judgment of $2,035.30 against Lemuel Darrow in its foreclosure suit.

Herman Heckman was granted a judgment for $80.29 and $74.40 against Samuel Welsh and Rosella Welsh, respectively.

REBEL LEADER MAY BE REPRESENTED

General Carranza Asks Recognition of Delegates at Niagara Falls Peace Conference.

LIND AND DOUGLASS CONFER

President Wilson and Advisors Review Progress of Proceedings Up to This Time.

Washington, May 27.—Representatives of the Constitutionals here took steps today to reopen the question of representation at the Niagara mediation conference.

John Lind and C. A. Douglass, legal representative of the Constitutionals, held what was called a neutral conference early today and later went to the state department to take up the subject with Secretary Bryan, who had gone to the capitol to confer with senators of the foreign relations committee. Their conference with the secretary was, on that account, deferred until later in the day.

Neither Mr. Lind or Mr. Douglass would disclose under what conditions the Constitutionals were willing to participate, but the opinion was received that the powers of a Carranza representative would be very limited, perhaps without plenary authority, and only for the purpose of furnishing information. What sudden turn in the negotiations had brought about the new attitude of the Carranza group was not disclosed.

While the Huerta and American delegates to the Niagara conference and the three South American mediators prepared to enjoy a brief letup from their work at an official garden party in Toronto today, President Wilson and his advisers reviewed progress that has marked the mediation proceedings up to this time and discussed plans for meeting future happenings. The fact that the delegates and the South American envoys did not hesitate to attend the Toronto fete was regarded as emphasizing reports of rapid, harmonious developments at Niagara Falls.

Dispatches were received here today that the withdrawal of Huerta at a date in the near future is possible and that such action is delayed as he desires to resign his position without loss of dignity.

SCRAMBLE ON FOR FREE RENT HOUSES

Wealthy Washingtonians Place Costly Homes in Hands of Care-keepers During Summer.

MUST LOOK AFTER PREMISES

Congressmen Confronted with Proposed Liquor Prohibition Amendment to Constitution.

(By Burton K. Standish, written for the United Press.)

Washington, May 27.—There's a scramble on among several hundred Washingtonians today for rent-free houses during the summer months in the city's most exclusive residential districts. Few people outside the Capital realize that there are in this city scores of beautiful and costly homes which are turned over to caretakers, sometimes without rent, and with coal, gas and electric light bills paid. On some occasions even, caretakers are paid a nominal sum to live in the houses.

Now is the season when these caretakers are the busiest. Those who have had these positions in the past are the most active and besiege almost daily the various real estate offices in the city. For this business is one of the hardest for real estate men to look after. In the first place they must be able to judge character "on the jump" and be able to pick men and women who would be capable and honest. Then after selecting the names of applicants the agents have to investigate their standing and trustworthiness. In the selection of the tenants widows almost have first choice. A good widow with children is always regarded as the best caretaker.

While the occupation of care-taker grew up originally when Washingtonians left the city for the summer it has extended to another branch now—that of furnished houses for sale or rent. For instance, if a public official who has lived here several years suddenly becomes a "lame duck" and moves "back to the farm" his Washington home is for sale. Often it is difficult to sell the place immediately or even to rent it. As a result a care-taker is selected. This party is given possession of the house but is required to keep it in tip-top condition and to show it to prospective buyers.

No public question in years has haunted Congressmen like the proposed liquor prohibition amendment to the federal constitution. They take to task—every time they can find them—any member of the House Judiciary Committee for reporting out the Hobson amendment. It is becoming the customary sight in the lower body to see any afternoon groups of three or five representatives gathered around a committee-man, protesting that the prohibition question should not have been brought out so boldly and put up to the members in a way that they cannot avoid being recorded.

Some members, of course, whose attitude on the question is well known, spare no pains in laughing at their "brothers in predicament. Representative Dies, of Texas, struck that note in a debate in which he said: "I shall discuss Mexico, the Colorado strike, woman suffrage and, if I have time, I shall take up national and international prohibition." Dies voiced the opinion of a large number of the men, however, when he declared as his belief that prohibition was a state question and should not be injected into national politics. When he made that statement in the House his additional remarks were drowned by applause.

Congressmen who are on the fence, or those who desire the country at large to stay "wet" but those constituents wish them to be "dry" are making all kinds of "soundings" and pleadings to senators' hoping that if the amendment passes the House the Senate will table it. There is a growing feeling in Washington, however, that national public officials will have to face the liquor prohibition question either in the next presidential campaign or two years later. Evasion, it is believed, will no longer be possible.

Leaders in the House are planning today to cut down the time required to call the roll of members on important bills from forty-five minutes to two minutes by installing an electric voting device. During the last few years as the membership of that body has gradually increased it has taken from three-quarters of an hour to an hour to call the roll. If two or three roll calls are taken off the day's session is consumed. The new device will make it possible for each member to vote "aye" or "no" on any bill by pressing a button at his seat. The cost is estimated at $20,000 and is favored by Speaker Clark and Majority Leader Underwood.

Uncle Sam will have to pay more than $5,000,000 to move his soldiers from Galveston by water to Vera Cruz according to estimates at the War Department today. The transfer by water of the first field army alone will require fifty transports. Some of this expense has been accruing for some time. Because of the uncertainty of the Mexican situation it has been necessary for the War Department to keep four transports under charter at Galveston at a cost of $36,000 a month.

While this five million represents only the cost of transportation by water the railroad fares of soldiers and officers will run into the millions if a more aggressive policy is adopted by this government south of the Rio Grande.

Child Cross? Feverish? Sick?

A cross, peevish, listless child, with coated tongue, pale, doesn't sleep; eats sometimes very little, then again ravenously; stomach sour; breath fetid; pains in stomach, with diarrhea; grinds teeth while asleep, and starts up with terror—all suggest a Worm Killer—something that expels worms, and almost every child has them. Kickapoo Worm Killer is needed. Get a box today. Start at once. You won't have to coax, as Kickapoo Worm Killer is a candy confection. Expels the worms, the cause of your child's trouble. 25c. CHIROPRACTIC

(Ki-ro-prak-tik)

Is the science of adjusting the subluxations (displacements) in the spinal column, commonly called back bone, for the purpose of removing the pressure from impinged nerves. The spinal column is the only place where nerves pass between two hard, bony, movable surfaces; therefore, it is the only place nerves can be impinged or the nerve supply restricted, and it matters not what part of the body or organ is affected, the cause is in the spinal column.

We simply analyze the spine and tell you where you are affected. Chiropractic is the only science that removes the cause of disease. No drugs, no pain, no knife. We use nothing but our hands, and the whole object is accomplished when the nerves are released. Paralysis, deafness, loss of voice, catarrh, gall stones, overweight, rheumatism, appendicitis, neuralgia, neurasthenia, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, eye, ear, throat, lungs, stomach, liver, kidney, bladder trouble, etc., all quickly and permanently disappear under Chiropractic adjustment, properly given. We remove the cause of disease and nature cures. Analysis and consultation free. Investigation costs you nothing and means your life, health and happiness.

Have you sought health with no permanent results and now pronounced incurable? If so investigate Chiropractic.

CROTHERSVILLE WILL WALK THE STRAIGHT AND NARROW

New Marshal Appointed and Will Have Plenty of Time to Keep His Star Bright and Shiny.

Crothersville has reached the height of its ambition. For a number of years the thriving little town has enjoyed a remarkable industrial growth, the town has been improved, new business houses have been erected, several residences have been constructed, a new lightning system installed and many other improvements made, but during the last six years the town has been without a marshal. Several have been appointed but resigned before they were sworn into office.

The town board, however, is a progressive body and believed that the appearance of an officer wearing a large star would have a good effect upon the visitors and might also prevent small disturbances which sometime occur and decided to appoint Louis Donahue as peace officer. He accepted the position and after purchasing a bright, new star, was sworn into office and is on duty. He does not expect to have a great amount of work to do as a peace officer. During the six years the town has been without police protection there has been very little trouble and what few offenders engaged in trouble were arrested by the constable. Aside from serving as policeman the new officer will act as street commissioner.

HUERTA FLEES FROM CAPITAL

This Is the Word Heard at Vera Cruz.

RUMOR CREATES EXCITEMENT

Army Circles in Captured Port City Are Agitated Over Apparently Well Defined Story That Old Dictator Has Left Mexico City With the Intention of Boarding a German Vessel Waiting for Him at Puerto Cortez.

Mexico City, May 27.—The announcement from the war office is that the situation in San Luis Potosi, Cuernavaca, is unchanged, while the federalists under General Ojeda are holding Mazatlan against the heavy assaults of the Constitutionalists. The capital continues quiet.

Vera Cruz, May 27.—An unconfirmed rumor is in circulation here that General Huerta has fled from Mexico City. The source of the report is not known, but its force has excited the highest army circles and there is much cabling and wireless reports to the United States.

It is said that General Huerta, accompanied only by a few close and loyal friends, left home early yesterday afternoon and after showing himself in his familiar haunts for a time, quietly withdrew and got aboard a car of a train bound for the south. It is not known whether this car would go to Puerto Mexico or Salina Cruz after the National line reached the Tehuantepec railroad by way of Cordoba.

If Huerta goes to Puerto Mexico he will find awaiting him the Ypiranga, the German steamship which has never unloaded its ammunition, and the German cruiser Dresden. The Ypiranga left Vera Cruz yesterday for Puerto Mexico, where it was stated it had been ordered to pick up a trainload of German subjects who were to leave the capital early this morning. The announcement yesterday caused some comment because it was not known there were enough Germans anxious to leave to fill a train.

Young Man Says Girl's Death Came in Struggle Against a Kiss.

Lisle, Ill., May 27.—Reginald A. Barr, leaving a note declaring that the death of his sweetheart, Florence Smith, at Downers Grove, three miles from here, last Saturday night, was accidental, jumped beneath a moving train here and was killed. Barr was twenty-four years old.

The note said that Miss Bentley was killed when he tried to kiss her. She screamed and he placed his hand over her mouth. In the struggle they tripped and fell. He believed her neck was broken; anyway she was dead.

Irish parliament cannot legislate on peace or war, navy, army or any naval or military force, foreign relations, trade outside Ireland, coinage or legal tender.

It cannot make any law either directly or indirectly to establish or endow any religion or prohibit the free exercise thereof or give a preference, privilege or advantage or impose any disability or disadvantage on account of religious belief or religious or ecclesiastical status, or make any religious belief or religious ceremony a condition of the validity of any marriage.

Temporary restrictions are placed on legislation, on land purchase, old age pensions, national insurance, labor exchanges, royal Irish constabulary, postoffice or other savings banks and friendly societies. The executive remains invested in the sovereign or in his representative.

Forty-two members still will be sent from Ireland to the house of commons.

The judicial committee of the privy council to give the final decision as to constitutional validity of any act passed by the Irish parliament.

The Irish exchequer to defray the costs of the Irish administration, except for reserved services mentioned above.

The imperial exchequer to pay an annual sum to the Irish exchequer, starting at $2,500,000 and eventually, after six years, becoming a permanent payment of $1,000,000 annually.

DEATH OF JACOB RIIS REMOVES USEFUL MAN

He Had Accomplished Many Social Reforms.

Barre, Mass., May 27.—After a long illness, Jacob A. Riis, author and social worker, is dead at his summer home here. Mrs. Riis and a son were at Mr. Riis's bedside when the end came. Jacob August Riis became, through his work in behalf of the poorer people in New York, "the most useful citizen" of the metropolis, according to a tribute once paid to him by Theodore Roosevelt, his intimate friend.

As an almost penniless immigrant he obtained knowledge of the slums at first hand and found conditions there so repellant that he consecrated his whole life to warfare against wretchedness. As a reporter on the New York Tribune and later on the New York Sun, Riis took up his real work in slum fighting. While attending to routine duty as a police reporter he worked day and night to arouse the people to the need of improved living conditions. One of the first of his campaigns was against the impurity of city water, and it was his fight which finally led to the purchase of the Croton watershed to assure safe drinking water for New York.

He brought sunlight to the tenement districts by forcing the destruction of rear tenements. He entirely cleared Mulberry Bend and replaced the squalid homes with shady parks. Riis drove bawdy shops out of tenement basements; he fought for laws abolishing child labor; and was largely instrumental in getting the passage of playgrounds laws.

After twenty-seven years as a reporter, Riis resigned to continue his fight by writing and lecturing.

AN AGREEMENT NOW IN SIGHT

Peace Conference Getting Down to Business.

CERTAIN POINTS ACCEPTED

Delegates of Both the United States and Mexico Are in Agreement Already on Certain Issues That Have Been Submitted by the Mediators and All Hands Believe That Other Issues Will Be Promptly Settled.

Vera Cruz, May 27.—John R. Silliman, the American vice consul at Saltillo, whose arrest there by federal officers and detention for many days brought vigorous protests from the state department at Washington, has arrived at Vera Cruz from Mexico City. The vice consul made the journey from the capital without an escort and was not molested.

Niagara Falls, May 27.—After a day of actual discussion of the practical issues involved in the Mexican tangle, the outlook for a successful outcome of the mediation conferences now being held here is better than at any previous time since the meetings began.

Tangible and carefully studied suggestions for the early pacification of Mexico and the installation of a permanent government able to bring about the great reforms needed for the southern republic were definitely agreed upon when they were submitted to the American delegates Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann, by Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil, and Ministers Naon and Suarez of Argentina and Chile. These suggestions had previously been sanctioned by the delegates of General Huerta.

The questions which still remain unsolved include several of the most vital issues involved, but all present indications afford good reasons to believe that these will be settled promptly and that the proceedings will be brought to a head within short notice.

So eager are both mediators and delegates to arrive at an early solution that no delay will be allowed to hold up the proceedings. All have agreed to hold three and even four sessions a day if needed. Today the mediators and all the delegates paid a visit to the lieutenant governor of Canada at Toronto, and the informal "conversations" were continued on the train.

Justice Lamar made the following statement to the newspaper men: "We have agreed upon a certain number of suggestions for the solution of the present difficulty, but several other important suggestions still remain to be discussed. The outlook is extremely favorable."

No further comment on the nature of the suggestions which had been agreed upon was obtainable from the delegates, but careful inquiry among those who know revealed the fact that they include some of the most vital of the issues involved. A carefully prepared plan, drawn up by the three mediators after hearing the claims and demands of both the United States and the Mexican delegates has been agreed upon in principle.

Huerta to Step Out.

Definite information regarding this plan is difficult to obtain, as none of the principals in the peace drama which has been staged here is willing to discuss it. It is understood, however, that provision has been made for the installation of a temporary government to step in at once in General Huerta's place and to remain in power until constitutional elections have been held and a president and congress lawfully elected. It is understood that President Wilson is prepared to pledge the support of the United States in the reorganization of internal affairs in Mexico, provided full guarantee is given that the reforms promised will be fulfilled and the program for the restoration of peace completely carried out.

Prompt recognition of this new government by the United States would be forthcoming, it is said, and should the constitutional elections to be held later result in the election of General Huerta he, too, would be immediately recognized, according to those who are best situated to know. Little doubt exists here, among close observers of developments in the Mexican problem, that President Wilson has definitely receded from his stand that Huerta must be completely eliminated from the government in Mexico. The dictator may change his mind and decide to leave of his own free will, but should he continue to set forth his rightful claim to be permitted to present himself as a candidate for the presidency, the Wilson government will not attempt to stop him.

It is known that Carranza has been in direct communication with Washington, and the belief prevails here that the Constitutionalist leader has reconsidered his decision not to participate in the mediation proceedings. Well informed persons here scout the idea that any protest from Carranza could interrupt the negotiations being conducted at this place. The mediators take the stand that the revolting leader having rejected their invitation to participate in the conference, no longer has a voice in the proceedings and the negotiations will go on regardless of any protest.

Defense Charges State With A "Frame Up."

WITNESSES CONTRADICTED

Alleged Conspiracy Case Now on Trial in the Davies Circuit Court Takes a New Turn When the Defense Introduces Evidence Designed to Disprove the Testimony Given by the State's Star Witnesses.

Washington, Ind., May 27.—In the conspiracy cases now on in the circuit court here the defense gave its attention to introducing evidence calculated to disprove the testimony given by the star witnesses for the state, Mrs. Annie E. Kutter and Enos J. Gable. Mrs. Van Allen, wife of one of the defendants, denied all that has been said by Mrs. Kutter with reference to her husband. She asserted that Mrs. Kutter came to the Allen home uninvited and under the guise of an employee of the state fire marshal and an insurance company, and offered to cause Allen's escape from all charges, provided he would assist in convicting Dr. D. V. Wolfe.

Mrs. Frank Geyer, a daughter of Wolfe, testified that she lived on the Wolfe farm in the summer of 1910 in a tent, but he denied giving birth to a child while there or in any place else before marriage, as Mrs. Kutter had testified. Mrs. Pearl Palmer, sister of Dr. Wolfe, also of Terre Haute, corroborated Mrs. Geyer.

Milton H. Wilson, George R. Allen and James W. Wilson testified that they had in a box still in Albert M. Perkins's livery barn in Washington at the request of Perkins to overhear a conversation. They said Gable approached Perkins at an appointed time and told him that if he would assist in defeating the Van Allen insurance case and landing Wolfe in the penitentiary, Perkins would receive $1,000. The witnesses said Perkins answered by saying he knew nothing that would convict Wolfe, and Gable said the evidence would be given to him by Gable.

TELLS GEOGRAPHERS ABOUT HIS NEW RIVER

Colonel Roosevelt Also Calls at White House.

Washington, May 27.—For the second time since he retired from the office of president on March 4, 1909, Colonel Roosevelt has entered the White House. Only once during the Taft administration did Mr. Roosevelt visit the White House, and that was on an occasion when President and Mrs. Taft were away on a journey to the west.

A crowd which had awaited Mr. Roosevelt's departure from the White House applauded vigorously as the well-known figure appeared in the doorway followed by Mr. Wilson. Mr. Wilson shook hands with Mr. Roosevelt as the latter took his departure, and the president smiled as the crowd paid its compliments to the former president by handclapping and the raising of hats. As the machine which bore Mr. Roosevelt started from the White House the ex-president waved his hand in an adieu to Mr. Wilson. The president bowed, smiled and paused for a moment as the Roosevelt motor proceeded from the White House grounds into the street.

Mr. Roosevelt called at the White House by invitation. He was received in the main way by the president, and the two had a talk for twenty minutes or more.

"I had a perfectly charming visit with President Wilson," said Mr. Roosevelt.

From the moment that the former president arrived at the Union station at 3:30 yesterday afternoon until he departed he was constantly on the move. He traveled by schedule and kept every engagement. It was 11 o'clock when Mr. Roosevelt finished his lecture on the "River of Doubt" under the auspices of the National Geographical society.

The Story of Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

Copyright, 1915, by Kate Douglas Wiggin

CHAPTER XVI.

A State of Maine Prophet.

SUMMER was dying hard, for although it had passed, by the calendar, Mother Nature was still keeping up her customary attitude.

There had been a soft rain in the night, and every spear of grass was brilliantly green and tipped with crystal. The smoke bushes in the garden plot and the asparagus bed beyond them looked misty as the sun rose higher, drying the soaked earth and dripping branches. Spiders' webs, marvels of lace, dotted the short grass under the apple tree. Every flower that had a fragrance was pouring it gratefully into the air; every bird with a joyous note in its voice gave it more joyously from a bursting throat, and the river laughed and rippled in the distance at the foot of Town House hill. The dawn grew into full morning, and streams of blue smoke rose here and there from the Edgewood chimneys. The world was alive and so beautiful that Waitstill felt like going down on her knees in gratitude for having been born into it and given a chance of serving it in any humble way whatsoever.

Wherever there was a barn, in Riverboro or Edgewood, one could have heard the three legged stools being lifted from the pegs, and then would begin the music of the milk pails; first the resonant sound of the stream in the bottom of the tin pail, then the soft, delicious purring of the cascade into the full bucket, while the cows serenely chewed their ends and whisked away the flies with swishing tails.

Deacon Baxter was taking his cows to a pasture far over the hill, the feed having grown too short in his own fields. Patty was washing dishes in the kitchen and Waitstill was in the dairy house at the butter making, one of her chief delights. She worked with speed and with beautiful sureness, patting, squeezing, rolling the golden mass like the true artist she was, then turning the sweet scented waxen balls out of the mould onto the big stone china platter that stood waiting. She had been up early, and for the last hour she had toiled with devouring eagerness that she might have a little time to herself. It was hers now, for Patty would be busy with the beds after she finished the dishes, so she drew a folded paper from her pocket, the first communication she had ever received in Ivory's handwriting, and sat down to read it:

My Dear Waitstill—Rodman will take this packet and leave it with you when he finds opportunity. It is not in any real sense a letter, so I am in no danger of incurring your father's displeasure. You will probably have heard new rumors concerning my father during the past few days, for Peter Morrill has been to Enfield, N. H., where he says letters have been received stating that my father died in Portland, O., more than five years ago. I shall do what I can to substantiate this fresh report, as I have always done with all the previous ones, but I have little hope of securing reliable information at this distance and after this length of time. I do not know when I can ever start on a personal quest myself, for even had I the money I could not leave home until Rodman is much older and fitted for greater responsibility. Oh, Waitstill, how you have helped my poor dear mother! Would that I were free to tell you how I value your friendship! It is something more than mere friendship. What you are doing is like throwing a life line to a sinking human being. Two or three times of late mother has forgotten to set out the supper things for my father. Her ten years' incessant waiting for him seems to have subsided a little, and in its place she watches for you. Ivory had written "watches for her daughter," but carefully erased the last two words. You come but seldom, but her heart feeds on the sight of you. What she needed, it seems, was the magical touch of youth and health and strength and sympathy, the qualities you possess in such great measure.

If I had proof of my father's death I think now perhaps that I might try to break it gently to my mother, as if it were fresh news, and see if possibly I might thus remove her principal hallucination. You see now, do you not, how sane she is in many—indeed in most ways—how sweet and lovable, even how sensible?

To help you better to understand the influence that has robbed me of both father and mother and made me and mine the subject of town and tavern gossip for years past I have written for you just a sketch of the "Cochrane craze," the romantic story of a man who swayed the wills of his fellow creatures in a truly marvelous manner. Some local historian of his time will doubtless give him more space. My wish is to have you know something more of the circumstances that have made me a prisoner in life instead of a free man. But, prisoner as I am at the moment, I am sustained just now by a new courage. I read in my copy of Ovid last night, "The best of weapons is the undaunted heart." This will help you, too, in your hard life, for yours is the most undaunted heart in all the world.

IVORY BOYNTON.

The chronicle of Jacob Cochrane's career in the little villages near the Saco river has no such interest for the general reader as it had for Waitstill Baxter. She hung upon every word that Ivory had written and realized more clearly than ever before the shadow that had followed him since early boyhood—the same shadow that had fallen across his mother's mind and left continual twilight there.

No one really knew, it seemed, why or from whence Jacob Cochrane had come to Edgewood. He simply appeared at the old tavern a stranger, with satchel in hand, to seek entertainment. Uncle Bart had often described this scene to Waitstill, for he was one of those sitting about the great open fire at the time. The man easily slipped into the group and soon took the lead in conversation, delighting all with his agreeable personality, his nimble tongue and graceful speech. At supper time the hostess and the rest of the family took their places at the long table, as was the custom, and he astonished them by his knowledge not only of town history, but of village matters that had supposed unknown to any one.

When the stranger had finished his supper and returned to the barroom he had to pass through a long entry, and the landlady, whispering to her daughter, said:

"Betsy, you go up to the chamber closet and get the silver and bring it down. This man is going to sleep there, and I am afraid of him. He must be a fortune teller, and the Lord only knows what else!"

In going to the chamber the daughter had to pass through the barroom. As she was moving quietly through, hoping to escape the notice of the newcomer, he turned in his chair and, looking her full in the face, suddenly said:

"Madam, you needn't touch your silver. I don't want it. I am a gentleman."

Whereupon the bewildered Betsy scuttled back to her mother and told her the strange guest was indeed a fortune teller.

Of Cochrane's initial appearance as a preacher Ivory had told Waitstill in their talk in the churchyard early in the summer. It was at a child's funeral that the new prophet created his first sensation, and there, too, that Aaron and Lois Boynton first came under his spell. The whole countryside had been just then wrought up to a state of religious excitement by revival meetings, and Cochrane gained the benefit of this definite preparation for his work. He claimed that all his sayings were from divine inspiration and that those who embraced his doctrine received direct communication from the Almighty. He disdained formal creeds and all manner of church organizations, declaring that sectarian names were marks of the beast and all church members to be in Babylon. He introduced rebaptism as a symbolic cleansing from sectarian stains, and after some months advanced a proposition that his flock hold all things in common. He put a sudden end to the solemn "deaconing out" and droning of psalm tunes and grafted on to his form of worship lively singing and marching, accompanied by clapping of hands and whirling in circles, during the progress of which the most hysterical converts or the most fully "Cochranized" would swoon upon the floor, or, in obeying their leader's instructions to "become as little children," would sometimes go through the most extraordinary and unmeaning antics.

It was not until he had converted hundreds to the new faith that he added more startling revelations to his gospel. He was in turn bold, mystical, eloquent, audacious, persuasive, autocratic, and even when his self styled "communications from the Almighty" converted all that his hearers had formerly held to be right, he still magnetized or hypnotized them into an unwilling assent to his beliefs. There was finally a proclamation to the effect that marriage vows were to be annulled when advisable and that complete spiritual liberty was to follow: a liberty in which a new affinity might be sought and a spiritual union begun upon earth, a union as nearly approximate to God's standards as faulty human beings could manage to attain.

Some of the faithful fell away at this time, being unable to accept the full doctrine, but retained their faith in Cochrane's original power to convert sinners and save them from the wrath of God. Storm clouds began to gather in the sky, however, as the delusion spread, month by month, and local ministers everywhere sought to minimize the influence of the dangerous orator, who rose superior to every attack and carried himself like some magnificent martyr at will among the crowds that now criticised him here or there in private and in public.

"What a picture of splendid audacity he must have been," wrote Ivory, "when he entered the orthodox meet-

'TIS OFT THE COLLAR OR VEST THAT GIVES THE MODISH TOUCH.

Much depends upon our collar today; it may be a rolling flare, a kimono, one of the new hood-shaped collars or a tiny sailor with the "sailor" all in back. These collars are usually of white, generally organdy, batiste or fine muslin; chiffon, too, hem-stitched or finished with the picot edge is favored. Vests are being made of these sheer white fabrics too, and they add a touch of crispness that is delightful. With the bolero frocks and suits, cut away sharply to the back, they are especially effective as they are entirely exposed. The afternoon frock of flowered crepe illustrated in number 8355 has a vest and tiny round collar of organdy; the ing house at a huge gathering where he knew that the speakers were to denounce his teachings. Old Parson Buzzell gave out his text from the high pulpit, Mark xiii, 37, "And what I say unto you I say unto all, watch." Just here Cochrane stepped in at the open door of the church and heard the warning, meant, he knew, for himself, and seizing the moment of silence following the reading of the text, he cried in his splendid sonorous voice, without so much as stirring from his place within the door frame: "Behold, I stand at the door and knock. If any man hear my voice I will come in to him and will sup with him. I come to preach the everlasting gospel to every one that heareth, and all that I want here is my bigness on the floor."

"I cannot find," continued Ivory on another page, "that my father or mother ever engaged in any of the foolish and childish practices which disgraced the meetings of some of Cochrane's most fanatical followers and converts. By my mother's conversations (some of which I have repeated to you, but which may be full of errors, because of her confusion of mind) I believe she must have had a difference of opinion with my father on some of these views, but I have no means of knowing this to a certainty, nor do I know that the question of 'choosing spiritual consorts' ever came between or divided them. This part of the delusion always fills me with such unspeakable disgust that I have never liked to seek additional light from any of the older men and women who might revel in giving it. That my mother did not sympathize with my father's going out to preach Cochrane's gospel through the country, this I know, and she was so truly religious, so burning with zeal, that had she fully believed in my father's mission she would have spurred him on instead of endeavoring to detain him."

"You know the retribution that overtook Cochrane at last," wrote Ivory again, when he had shown the man's early victories and his enormous influence. "There began to be indignant protests against his doctrines by lawyers and doctors, as well as by ministers; not from all sides, however, for remember, in extenuation of my father's and my mother's espousal of this strange belief, that many of the strongest and wisest men, as well as the purest and finest women in York county, came under this man's spell for a time and believed in him implicitly, some of them even unto the end."

"Finally there was Cochrane's arrest and examination, the order for him to appear at the supreme court, his failure to do so, his recapture and trial and his sentence of four years' imprisonment on several counts, in all of which he was proved guilty. Cochrane had all along said that the Anointed of the Lord would never be allowed to remain in jail, but he was mistaken, for he stayed in the state's prison at Charlestown, Mass., for the full duration of his sentence. Here I am again trying to plead the cause of my father and mother, here he received much sympathy and some few visitors, one of whom walked all the way from Edgewood to Boston, 115 miles, with a petition for pardon, a petition which was delivered and refused at the Boston statehouse. Cochrane issued from prison a broken and humiliated man, but, if report says true, is still living, far out of sight and knowledge, somewhere in New Hampshire. He once

TAKE THIS MAN'S ADVICE.

Try the Great Kidney Remedy

It always gives me pleasure to recommend anything that is right and so I feel it my duty to herald the praises of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root. For years I was troubled with kidney disease and it was so intense that I was bedridden for days at a time. I gave up all hope and doctors for miles around gave me no help. Incidentally I tried several patent remedies and at last tried Swamp-Root. From the first it gave me relief and it was no time before I was able to be up and around and now I am perfectly well and able to work as I used to before my terrible sickness.

So now let me thank you for your wonderful discovery and take this opportunity to recommend it to all who suffer from kidney troubles.

Yours very truly,

WALTER SHIVER.

Blood Tonic Has Important Meaning

Puts the Right Sort of Vim Where Most Needed.

To tone the blood means to enable it to throw off accumulated impurities, to increase the red corpuscles and to put the blood-making organs into such active condition as to produce that conscious sensation of what we feel as health.

This is the logical effect of using the famous blood purifier, S. S. S. Half the people you meet complain of weary muscles, stagnant brain, jangled nerves, and a wonderful desire to lay down and just quit. Most of these people have been using nervines that spasmodically dare up the nerves only to die down again, as die they must. Avoid nerve stimulants. Bear in mind that this worn-out feeling is due to poor blood, to bacteria in the water you drink; to the multiplying of destructive germs in the blood faster than they can be overcome by the white corpuscles; and to whooping cough, diphtheria, that condition where the venous or impure blood accumulates faster than it can be replaced by the red arterial blood.

S. S. S. has long been famous as a blood purifier, and its action by elimination of the irritating poisons that infest the blood, is one of the very important things to know.

You can get S. S. S. at any drug store, but take no other so-called blood purifier. S. S. S. is purely a vegetable product, and you will make a great mistake to have some enthusiast palm off a mercury, arsenic or iodine preparation that may do you irreparable harm.

S. S. S. is prepared by The Swift Specific Co., 533 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and if you have any deep-seated or obstinate blood trouble, write to their Medical Dept. for free advice. It will be worth your while to do so.

FRUIT GROWERS MUST FIGHT SAN JOSE SCALE IN ORCHARDS

State Entomologist Says Pest will Cost Ten Thousand Dollars—Many Trees Dying.

By United Press.
Indianapolis, May 27.—"It rests with the farmers and fruit growers of Indiana whether they save the state ten thousand dollars in fruit trees this spring and summer, or whether this great loss shall go as tribute to the San Jose scale," said C. H. Baldwin, state entomologist, when interviewed today by the United Press. "Thousands of trees are dying annually in Indiana because of the ravages of this pest," he said, "and yet with little expense the fruit grower can fight it successfully."

Baldwin said that this insect was one of the most destructive in Indiana; that many varieties of trees and shrubs were attacked by it, but that fruit trees were particularly susceptible. While sour cherries are nearly immune, peaches and plums succumb quicker than most others.

The time to begin on the San Jose scale is at once, according to Baldwin. He said that in the first ten days of June every tree affected in the least should be given a thorough spraying with the summer strength of the lime-sulphur solution. This solution consists of 1½ gallons of fine-sulphur to 50 quarts of water. It should be applied with a nozzle giving a fine mist, and the spray should reach from the ground to the tips of the smallest branches. The commercial lime-sulphur product should be used to avoid mistakes in mixing.

Baldwin said that if the farmer hadn't overlooked his opportunity, he would have killed the San Jose scale during the months when the trees are dormant. If he had acted then he could have used a stronger solution, which would have killed the older insects with the developed scale. The summer solution will kill only the young scale without protection, but the use of the summer solution now will tide the tree over to the dormant period when the stronger solution can be used, he said. The stronger solution might kill the tree if used now.

Since the San Jose scale is continually hatching out, it would be wise to give another spraying between the 10th and 30th of July. This second spraying also will catch the second brood of codling moth.

The San Jose scale when first born appears like a tiny, yellow particle or like a speck of sulphur. It crawls about. Later it develops a hard shell. The scale sucks the juices from the tree through its mouth part, or "bill." To reach the vital part of the tree it crawls down under the scaly bark of the tree next to the sappy structure.
